MANPOWER REQUIREMENTS
AND THE
LABOUR FORCE
BRITISH GUIANA — 1965

A DIRECTORY OF LARGE ESTABLISHMENTS

MANPOWER SURVEY OFFICE
MINISTRY OF LABOUR
AND SOCIAL SECURITY

PREFACE

The execution of any large scale social or economic survey usually requires the prior construction of a frame from which units may be selected for detailed investigation, since in many instances complete and up-to-date lists of business establishments, farms, households etc. do not exist. Great care should be exercised in the preparation of such frames, since inaccuracies in their compilation can materially affect the results of any investigation, and in the present enquiry a substantial amount of effort was expended in consulting every source which it was felt might be useful in providing information to ensure full coverage.

The Factories Register in the Department of Labour, Registers in the Inland Revenue Department, District Commissioners' Offices, Rice Marketing Board, the Forestry and Lands and Mines Departments were some of the more important sources tapped, and we did not fail to examine any useful information on the location of establishments which were given to us by knowledgeable individuals.

It is felt that the frame of large establishments which was built up for this survey is as complete as could be expected, and since such a register may be of use in future work, provided the necessary steps are taken to make adjustments in the interim, the names have been arranged alphabetically, showing nature of business and issued as a separate publication.

The survey of establishments covered both large and small establishments, but whereas an attempt was made to collect data from all of the former, in the case of the latter, only those located in selected sample areas were included in the enquiry. It was therefore possible to construct a directory only for the larger establishments, and for smaller establishments, we have to be content with estimates of the total numbers in various localities and industries. Those estimates are presented in the preliminary report.

A large establishment for this enquiry was defined as one in which there were five or more regular paid employees, so that cases in which there may have been six or eight workers in all, but only two were paid employees, and the remainder unpaid family workers, would have been excluded. Most of the information on the names and location of establishments was collected some time between February and June of 1965, so that this directory may be considered as being up-to-date as of the latter date.

It is important to note that whereas in the Household section of the investigations, persons in all types of industries (Agriculture, Mining, Manufacture, Construction, Services etc.) were included, purely Agricultural operations (with the exception of Sugar Estates) were excluded from the Establishments section.

It is a pleasure to record how delighted I am to have been privileged to be associated with such a conscientious group of workers in the execution of this project, and more particularly, to express my appreciation for the work done by Mr. Basil Henry and Mr. V. Wong (substantively Assistant Inspector of Labour and Statistician, Statistical Bureau, respectively) my two chief assistants, who were seconded to the Manpower Survey Office for the duration of the project. The compilation of this directory owes much to their efforts and those of Miss Ida Austin and Miss Marjorie Cheong who had responsibility for preparing and keeping the registers up-to-date with the information collected by Enumerators.
